Good Internships are Good Business

Creating a Mutually Beneficial Relationship

The rise in global competition for a talented and innovative workforce brings opportunities for Rhode Island employers to gain a competitive edge.

What is the best experiential option for your organization?

Experiential Learning provides students with direct experience through which they can use analytical skills and reflection to apply new ideas gained from the experience to their classroom learning. Experiential learning includes internships, service learning, and various practicum opportunities. Determine what the best fit for the organization is by considering the following definitions:

Volunteer is a person who performs a service willingly, without pay or credit in order to support a cause.

Service Learning is curriculum-based emphasizing hands-on learning while addressing real world concerns. The service experience provides a context for translating discipline based theories into practice.

Civic Engagement offers a broad concept of community involvement and awareness that can include service, advocacy, service learning, volunteerism and political participation, with the goal of helping to develop community based knowledge, values and skills.

Capstone/Project Based Learning course is the culmination of learning in the major. A student generally works on a single large project--such as a thesis paper or large research project--for the entire semester.

Externships (Job Shadow) provide an initial exposure to a career for a brief period of time (such as one day a week or a couple hours per week) by having students “shadow” an experienced employee or professional. Externships may include academic credit when connected to a course.

Internships are defined by the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) as: “a form of experiential learning that integrates knowledge and theory learned in the classroom with practical application and skills development in a professional setting. Internships give students the opportunity to gain valuable applied experience and make connections in professional fields they are considering for career paths; and give employers the opportunity to guide and evaluate talent.” In addition, an internship is a semester (fall, spring, summer) in duration, may or may not carry credit, may be paid or unpaid based on the Department of Labor criteria (See Page 8 for DOL Requirements).

A Student Employee is a person who is hired to provide services to an organization on a regular basis in exchange for compensation, not for academic credit. This is appropriate when you don't meet Department of Labor 6 Prong test. \(See Page 8\)

A closer look at a Volunteer

A Volunteer might be the best fit for your organization if you are looking for one time assistance at an event or program or if you need 3-12 hours per week of service. Unlike an Internship, the focus of a volunteer position is primarily on the service being completed and the individual or issue receiving that service. An internship will primarily focus on the learning experience of the student and the benefits to the organization/ employer are secondary. Service Learning is a balance between the two with equal focus on learning, service and benefits to recipients and providers.

Good Internships are Good Business

A closer look at an Intern

Often times an internship is the ideal fit for an individual and employer. An internship is any carefully monitored meaningful learning experience in which a individual has intentional professional goals and reflects actively on what he or she is accomplishing throughout the experience. Developing an internship program is an excellent strategy for investing in your organization's future successes, often leading to discovering future colleagues and leaders.

A typical internship:

- Includes developing intentional learning objective goals that are structured into the experience and supervised by a professional with relevant and related background in the field.
- Promotes academic, career and/or personal development.
- Includes learning objectives, observation, reflection, and evaluation.
- Balances the intern's learning goals with the organization's needs.
- Typically lasts three months. May be part-time or full-time.
- Involves industry related and soft skill development.
- May be carefully monitored and evaluated for academic credit.
- Provides adequate supervision in a reasonably safe environment with the necessary tools to perform the learning goals agreed upon for the duration of the internship.

An Internship is not:

- Free help.
- Meant to replace an employee.
- More than 20% busy work (filing, covering phone, errands).

How do employers benefit from an Internship Program?

One of the more significant advantages to providing internships is the opportunity to select and develop your future talent. You have the opportunity to evaluate and screen potential employees prior to making a full-time position offer, which leads to financial savings. Employers have reported converting more than half of eligible interns into full-time hires. If hired in a permanent position, previous interns assimilate faster to their new roles and have shorter learning curves than external hires.

Interns can:

- Provide freedom for professional staff to pursue creative or more advanced projects.
- Increase staff retention rate.
- Assist an organization in application of the latest strategies and techniques in the field.
- Maintain connections with colleges and increase visibility on campus.
- Promote community involvement -excellent public relations tool.
- Recruit other students and generate enthusiasm.
- Creates awareness of the field for future hires.
- Giving to the community by teaching the prospective work force.

Finding the right intern for your organization

High School: High School students are interested in developing interpersonal and professional skills. These skills will allow them to discover what areas they excel in, and they could potentially remain with the organization through college. This experience can also increase the students desire to graduate and pursue higher education in the future.

Undergraduate: An undergraduate intern could be beneficial for your organization because of their experience in and out of the classroom. They have an opportunity to apply things they've learned in their undergraduate curriculums into the workplace. Many students participate in internships to explore career niches and to develop their professional skills. Ideally an internship for a college student is an opportunity to network, enhance industry related and soft skills, leading from education to employment.

Graduate: Since these students have earned an undergraduate degree and are interested in advancing research and professional skills relevant to their career niche.

Career Changer: By transitioning to a new industry they are hoping to expand a professional network in this new field and incorporate their professional skills into your organization.

International: These are typically undergraduate or graduate students. There is no excessive paperwork needed to hire an international intern. International students do not need a green card to intern. Eligible students who maintain an F-1 or J-1 visa status are permitted to intern in their major field of study by federal regulation with permission from their representative Office of International Students and Scholars. These students benefit organizations because of their language advantage and their willingness to adapt to a different environment. The application process for International interns includes:

1. The student's academic advisor or Dean/Chairman of the department must complete the Curricular Practica Training Form (F-1) or Academic Training Certification Form (J-1).
2. Provide an original job offer letter on company letterhead that includes the following information (no faxes or e-mails will be accepted):
 - a. Name of company
 - b. Location of curricular practical training or academic training
 - c. Salary information (optional)
 - d. Number of hours per week (not to exceed 20 hours during while school is in session)
 - e. Beginning and ending dates of the training
3. Student must submit all of the above documents for approval to the Office of International Students and Scholars (OISS).

Making an Internship Offer

When you feel you have found the candidate with the appropriate experience, professionalism, maturity and who is a mutually beneficial fit for the organization, make an offer. Just as in a permanent full-time job search, students may be applying and interviewing for internships with multiple organizations. Thus, it is best to make an offer as soon as a decision has been made. At this time, a work schedule should be set, compensation agreed upon, and appropriate paperwork completed for human resources need and the student's internship requirements.

Upon the acceptance of the offer, remove your internship from all places where it is posted (e.g., college/university web sites) to prevent further applications.

How do student interns benefit from an Internship Program?

Students are seeking opportunities that stimulate their interests and provide real-world experiences. A meaningful, purposeful internship program will:

- Ensure the assignment of challenging projects and tasks.
- Provide projects that complement academic programs and/or career interests.
- Give broad exposure to the organization (remember: this is a chance for them to personally develop and explore career possibilities).
- Provide adequate, reliable, and regular supervision and mentoring.
- Ensure interns are keeping pace and accomplishing goals.
- Orientation.
- Create a professional network.
- Industry relevance.
- Real life experience.
- Enable the intern to establish a profession network.

Learning Goals

At the start of the internship it is recommended that the supervisor and intern create a list of learning goals the intern hopes to complete. The learning goals serve as the academic and professional roadmap for the intern's semester/time with your organization. This activity helps to clearly identify the intern's learning objectives and how the intern plans to accomplish them. Creating these goals is also an opportune time to discuss work place requirements, intern responsibilities, and hours expected to complete (to earn credit). We ask our supervisors to take the time to meet with the interns during the first week of the internship to discuss and negotiate learning goals. (See end of document for sample learning goals).

Providing an Intern Orientation to your Organization

It is very important that interns be warmly welcomed and introduced throughout your organization, just as you would welcome a new full-time employee. Not only are interns new to your organization, in many cases, they are new to the professional world of work.

If affiliated with a school: Many students are unfamiliar with the activities, environment and objectives of your organization. Even though your interns may have worked part-time to support their education, these experiences may not have exposed them to organizational politics, the need for confidentiality, the importance of teamwork, or the profit-making nature of business. It is during the orientation and training that these issues and information about the organization are addressed.

The sooner your intern understands your organization and how it operates, the sooner he or she can assume assigned responsibilities and contribute. Expectations can vary based on the size of your organization, but in general, be sure to review:

- Hours
- Dress code
- Overall responsibilities
- How to cope with absenteeism
- Safety regulations and requirements

Designing Your Internship Program

Prior to hiring an intern, an employer must understand how interns will fit within the company's goals and culture. Since organizations vary in age, size, industry, and product, so too will internship activities.

Questions that may determine what kind of program will work best for you:

- What does your organization hope to gain from the program?
- Is your organization looking to fulfill a need on a specific project? Will this internship(s) encompass one major project, or entail a variety of small projects?
- What are the tools and workspace necessary to provide the student?
- What talents, academic background and experience do you want in an intern? Decide on qualifications early on to help you select the best candidate.
- Who will be primarily responsible for the intern(s)? Will that person be a mentor, supervisor, or both?

Learn about prospective Interns: Whether a high school student, college student or adult learner, we want to develop skills. The best way to know what skills an intern is hoping to gain is to interview.

It is important that employers realize that school and classes must remain a top priority for interns if they are a current student. The internship position should enhance their learning experience.

Understand that for most interns this is a new experience and they may need support in balancing their schoolwork and internship. Agreeing on a set number of hours interns will work each week and offering flex-time for freedom to plan their schedules on a weekly basis are two ways to support balance.

Required hours/credit may vary by school but most interns typically complete 10-20 hours per week. The student intern should meet with an academic or internship advisor for further direction.

Role of an Internship Supervisor and Mentor

It's going to be important to identify a supervisor for your intern(s) who will familiarize them with the organization, provide assignments and serve as a "contact" person for questions. It's recommended that the intern supervisor be an expert in the type of work the intern(s) will be performing to provide the appropriate guidance for the intern's assignments. An intern supervisor's responsibilities will include:

- Taking part in an intern's application, screening, and interview process
- Conducting intern orientation
- Developing learning goals
- Meeting with an intern regularly to evaluate performance and if needs/goals are being met; and assessing the internship program's success

Role of a Mentor

In addition to the supervisor, a mentor may assist with transition into this new learning environment. This is done by answering general questions related to personal and professional growth, and sharing career knowledge leading to networking in the field.

The Stages of an Internship

Adapted from: Sweitzer, H.F. & King, M.A. (1999). The Successful Internship: Transformation & Empowerment

Some of the concerns and challenges interns face seem to occur in a predictable order. Each stage has its own obstacles and opportunities. There are concerns interns will have at each stage, and to some extent, those concerns must be resolved for them to move forward and continue learning and growing. However, the process of resolving the concerns is also a learning experience in and of itself. At each stage, there are important tasks that will help interns address the concerns. If these tasks go undone and the concerns are left unresolved, the intern can become stuck in a stage.

Rate of progress through the stages is affected by many factors, including the number of hours spent at the agency; previous internships or field experiences; your personality; the personal issues and levels of support you bring into the experience; the style of supervision and the nature of the work. The more you understand as a supervisor, the better the learning experience for the intern.

Anticipation

- Beginning of internship
- Anxiety- "What if"... Interaction with many people
- Level Task accomplishment low
- Definition of specific goals with consideration of skills needed to complete established goals
- Assumptions- need to examine and critique
- Development of good relationships with supervisor, co-workers, etc.

Disillusionment

- Gap between expectations for the internship and what is actually occurring
- Sometimes gaps small, others large
- "What if..." from previous stage has become "What's Wrong"
- Possibility for tremendous for personal and professional growth by working through problems

Confrontation

- To get past Disillusionment stage intern must face and study what is happening
- Failure to acknowledge and discuss problems can diminish learning experience, performance, etc
- May need to reevaluate goals- may be unrealistic or opportunities may have changed
- As issues raised in disillusionment are resolved, task and morale accomplishments will raise
- Must continue to confront and not get "frozen in the moment"
- Empowerment from knowing can grapple with problems effectively

Competence

- Morale high- trust in yourself
- Transition into "professional" from "apprentice"
- Good platform to demand more from self and assignment- increase work load, responsibility

Culmination

- May face a variety of feelings at this stage
- Pride in accomplishments, sadness in leaving
- Need to address emotions, find avenue to express them

Paying an Intern

- Wages for most internship opportunities are usually determined before the intern is hired and are not typically negotiated.
- Consider paying consistent wages to all interns within each department.
- Students in technical fields are generally paid more than nontechnical fields.
- Pay for interns often varies by location, type of industry, size of organization, etc.

Good Internships are Good Business

Unpaid as Defined by the Department of Labor

If you are deciding between paid and unpaid internships, it is important to know if the U.S. Fair Labor Standards Act applies to your organization.

The U.S. Fair Labor Standards Act restricts employer's use of unpaid interns. This Act applies to businesses that have two or more employees directly engaged in interstate commerce as well as annual sales of $500,000 or more. Interns who qualify as trainees do not have to be paid. If you find you cannot pay your intern, you must meet these six criteria for determining trainee status (as determined by the U.S. Department of Labor):

1. The internship, even though it includes actual operation of the facilities of the employer, is similar to training, which would be given in an educational environment;
2. The internship experience is for the benefit of the intern;
3. The intern does not displace regular employees, but works under close supervision of existing staff;
4. The employer that provides the training derives no immediate advantage from the activities of the intern and on occasion its operations may actually be impeded;
5. The intern is not necessarily entitled to a job at the conclusion of the internship; and
6. The employer and the intern understand that the intern is not entitled to wages for the time spent in the internship.

Other Forms of Benefits

Offering benefits may provide incentives for talented students to accept one internship position over another or increase the interns' commitment during the experience.

- Opportunity for academic credit from school
- Scholarships
- Housing assistance for those who relocate
- Professional Development Networking Events
- Time worked as an intern can accumulate and apply toward benefits if turned into a full-time employee after graduation
- Paid holidays (if already receiving compensation)
- Tuition reimbursement

Insurance Considerations

Employers, interns, parents and colleges/universities should be aware of insurance considerations:

- Accident/liability insurance: provided by the intern/parent/guardian (some organizations may require the school to provide liability insurance.)
- Automobile accident insurance: provided by the intern/parent/guardian.
- Health/Life insurance: provided by the intern/parent/guardian.
- Worker's compensation: does not apply for interns participating in non-paid internship experiences, but if injured at the internship site, should be covered by the intern/parent/guardian personal insurance. (Paid internships require that students be covered by worker's compensation.)

Loan Forgiveness for Internships

Rhode Island Student Loan Authority (RISLA) has launched a rewards program to encourage college students to pursue internships and help offset the fee that some students may incur to obtain credit for internships. Loan forgiveness will be awarded to qualifying borrowers on any non-federal loan held by RISLA. To be eligible the student must attend a RI institution of higher education, or be a RI resident and they must have a non-federal loan with RISLA. Internship requirements include:

- Internship must be after May 1, 2013
- Internship must be located in Rhode Island or out-of-state
- Paid or Unpaid
- Internship must be 3-credits and on transcript, validated by an institution of higher education
- Student graduates from their degree/certificate program

To apply: Download the application form from www.risla.com (Rewards Programs; Internship Rewards)

RI Work Immersion Program

The Governor's Workforce Board Work Immersion Program provides a 50% wage subsidy to RI employers that provide a qualifying paid internship to a RI college student. Internships must either provide college credit or receive an endorsement from the intern's college or university. The internships must pay between $7.75 and $20 per hour and can last from 45 to 200 hours. Businesses that hire interns at the end of the internships will receive additional wage reimbursement. For information on how to apply for the RI Work Immersion Program, contact the Governor's Workforce Board at 401-462-8860 or www.gwb.ri.gov.

Writing an Internship Posting Description

Employers are competing to gain a student's interest and stand out among the rest. When writing your posting, treat the description as an opportunity to showcase the internship. (See end of document for sample posting descriptions).

Questions to consider BEFORE writing the position description:

- Why will students want to apply for your opportunity over others in the industry?
- Does your opportunity illustrate how it will be a unique experience?
- Do you fully define the benefits and incentives your organization can provide?

Writing an internship description is essential to recruiting the right individual. Write the description in clear, everyday language that will help the student understand the position and your organization culture. If the opportunity offers a broad exposure to many elements in your organization, be sure to state that in the description. Interns appreciate knowing the expectations upfront.

The essential components of an effective internship description include:

- Explain the organization's goals and mission
- Outline the intern's responsibilities and potential tasks/projects
 - Describe skills that will be developed
- Illustrate the necessary qualifications
 - Skills (computer, analytical, design, communications, etc.)
 - Education level (year, GPA, etc.) and Majors
- Clarify the duration of the internship
 - Hours required per week / semester (fall, spring, summer)
 - Flexibility with schedule or specific hours
- Note if it's paid or unpaid
- Specify how to apply - provide contact information

Good Internships are Good Business

Posting Your Internship Online

Many campus career centers have databases that allow employers to post free job/internship opportunities. You can visit their sites for instruction in addition to posting on bridge.jobs.

bridge.jobs: bRidge is a program that focuses on connecting employers and students in Rhode Island.

bRidge is a program of the Rhode Island Student Loan Authority (RISLA) and RISLA's College Planning Center of Rhode Island. RISLA has joined up with Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Rhode Island (AICURI), the Rhode Island Board of Governors for Higher Education (RIBGHE) and the Greater Providence Chamber of Commerce to bring together academia, business and community.

The goal of bRidge is to match Rhode Island employers with talented students looking to gain valuable professional experience. Applying knowledge and skills acquired in college to a professional setting is a vital component of a student's college education. Individuals who gain relevant internship experience are better prepared for full-time employment after graduation and bring with them exposure to cutting edge practices and technology, new insights and philosophies, flexibility and a thirst for knowledge. The bRidge website allows employers to post paid or unpaid internships online and directly reach out to a vast and talented pool of individuals.

Retaining Talent in the State of Rhode Island

There are many ways to make the internship both memorable and engaging for both the intern and employer:

Social Activities: Whether it is employees and interns going out to lunch, or employees taking interns to a local baseball game, engaging in these activities provides a great opportunity to get to know one another on a more personal level. They also provide interns a chance to get to know other interns and employees with whom they have not worked. Many Rhode Island employers with successful internship programs state that their social activities are rated by interns as one of the top highlights of their experience.

Professional Development Activities: Allow interns to develop their professional skills by allowing them to sit in on meetings and work with employees in other departments for a day. Provide opportunities for interns to attend career development events/seminars in the community to learn new skills.

Common Internship Forms

Each school has learning agreement forms they may ask you to complete.

Mid Term and Final Evaluation

An internship can only be a true learning experience if constructive feedback is provided. An effective evaluation will focus on the interns' initial learning objectives identified at the start of the internship. Supervisors should take time to evaluate both the student's positive accomplishments and areas for improvement.

Interns will look to their mentors and/or supervisors to help them transition from the classroom to the workplace. It is recommended that mentors and/or supervisors regularly meet with interns to receive and provide feedback concerning their performance. During these meetings the students may:

- Report on a project's status
- Learn how their work is contributing to the organization
- Participate in evaluating their strengths
- Discuss areas needing growth and development
- Get insight about what work lies ahead

Typically supervisors are asked to evaluate interns at the midpoint and end of the internship. Employers are encouraged to review the internship with the intern before he or she leaves. Evaluations are helpful when determining the intern's success within the organization for future internships or employment upon graduation.

Conclusion

Thank you for your interest in supervising and mentoring an intern. Your participation provides interns the opportunity for both personal and professional growth. Interns and volunteers have been commended for their diligence, work ethic, and professionalism. We are confident that you will find them a welcomed addition to your staff. Representatives from experiential and career offices in every Rhode Island institution of higher education have come together to create this guide which will outline the basic fundamentals involved in designing an internship program, and illustrate the benefits of investing in an experiential learning program.

YOUTH AND FAMILY SERVICES CORPORATION

BEHAVIOR SPECIALIST

Internship Description: We believe that every child has the right - and should have the opportunity - for full inclusion in life. In 1997, we established a Youth and Family Services Program to help children with disabilities learn the skills they need to become active, participating members of the larger community.

To support a child's development, we create individualized programs that are family-centered, recognizing that parents or guardians are a critical part of the implementation team. We bring together an interdisciplinary team that supports and works with families to find positive ways to deal with the many challenges posed by a child's disabilities. Depending upon what services and expertise are needed, this support team can be comprised of an administrator, treatment consultant, clinical supervisor, treatment coordinator, and behavioral specialist.

Our Youth and Family Services Program is designed for eligible children ages 3-21 with special health care needs or who are at risk for chronic physical, developmental or behavioral conditions.

Our Home-Based Therapeutic Services include:

Behavior Management
Social & Daily Living Skills
Community Integration
Parenting Skills Training
